UP FROM THE LIBRARY

GENERAL LIBRARY

Navy libraries supply recreational, technical and general informational material. Books help a man perform his assignment more efficiently, settle arguments, provide professional background, keep the man posted on what is going on in the world around them, provide inspiration and stimulation.

Our Hospital Library gives three-fold library service. The Medical Library serves the staff. The General Library serves the staff, their dependents, and ambulatory patients within the library and operates a bookcart service for bed patients or those restricted to their wards.

The objective of the General Library is to furnish informational, educational technical, reference and recreational reading materials for all patients with the purpose of contributing to their recovery and welfare. It shares with other departments of the hospital the responsibility of social adjustment and vocational education of the patient and staff. The General Library promotes reading as a satisfying experience both in and out of the hospital.

Ward personnel can help encourage patients to read NOW, while they have more time to read than they ever will.

Please DO so; SHOW an interest in WHAT they are reading. The Librarian will appreciate your calling her attention to any patient who may need special help.

We supply patients in strict isolation with magazines and paperbound books which may be destroyed. Please let us know when this service is needed.

Talking Book Service can be obtained for patients who cannot read or use ordinary printed books and magazines because of physical limitations.

Each ward has a deposit of paperbound books which is exchanged monthly. These books are for the bed patients and are not to be removed from the ward.

MEDICAL LIBRARY

The aim of the Medical Library is to assist and further the education, reading and research program of the professional staff of the hospital by providing and maintaining sufficient medical and allied scientific literature and library services to meet the requirements of the staff in all phases of study tending toward improved patient care.

The Librarian will provide bibliographic and reference services on request.

We have interlibrary loan arrangements with other medical libraries. Time limits on materials borrowed from them conform to the rules of the lending library and take into account time lost in transportation.

The Medical Library is open to staff members only, not to patients nor dependents. Corpsmen may use any Medical Library materials in the library for reference. However they may borrow only nursing textbooks.

Indefinite loans of Medical Library materials will be made to the appropriate Chiefs of Services upon request. They are not subject to sub-loan.

Use of the library when unattended shall be restricted to reference use only by staff officers who, during such period, shall not remove any materials from it.

RULES

The loan period is 21 days except for items in heavy demand which will be overnight or 7 days as necessary. Due to the long loan period renewals will be made only in special cases. General reference books and most recent issues of recreational periodicals will not be loaned.

Personnel going on leave shall return all materials not indefinitely charged to them before their departure.

Books not in the library when called for will be reserved on request and may not be renewed by the person having them out.

Transfers of materials between individuals are not authorized. Books must be returned to the library and signed out by the new reader. The borrower is responsible for the proper care of such borrowed materials while in his custody and for their return to the library when due. Lost books must be reported at once.

Borrowers having overdue books or other materials may not withdraw additional items until the overdue ones are returned.

All materials on loan from the library must be returned before a clearance slip is signed when a borrower is detached from the hospital. Military sponsors shall be responsible for materials on loan to their dependents.

Food and drinks, radio and television sets will not be permitted in the library. Sleeping is prohibited.

Consult NAVHOSP MEMPHIS INSTRUCTION 5070.11 for other rules.

RED CROSS NEWS

 BAND: The Village Chapter
 DATE: Wednesday, July 8

Crutches, beds, and wheelchairs were the way the minority made it to the scene last Wednesday night for the monthly Red Cross Dance. The rest came on foot. "Is anyone sick here?" was the question asked as the majority performed the Funny Chicken, Popcorn, and Robot to the groovy gigs put out by the Village Chapter.

The band impressed all with excellent showmanship and consistently good music. The continuous thump of drums and vibrating guitars from these 14 and 15 year olds drew mini-skirted USO girls, R.C. Vols and patients with assorted ailments to the floor.

Smiles were seen and laughter heard despite the heat and rapidly disappearing punch, and a good time was had by all.

Old Indian Proverb: "Today is the first day of the rest of your life."

Dear Editor of the CLIPPER, and friends at Naval Hospital Memphis, Tenn.

As a MEDAL OF HONOR holder, I am proud to say, and I know most of my friends will agree, that I served my country to the best of my ability.

I would like to take this time to say it was my pleasure to have served with and to have known all the people I did while stationed at the Naval Hospital, Memphis, Tennessee.

I only wish I had the time to write each and every one individually, but unfortunately I am unable to do so, however, I would try to respond to anyone who would care to write.

/s/ Donald BALLARD, HM2

Navy Medical Corps 'Late' With Birthday

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — After a delay of 99 years, the Navy Medical Corps has finally celebrated its first birthday.

The late start with the festivities came about because it was not until late last year that the Navy decided the formal founding date of the Corps was March 3, 1871.

That date was chosen, medical officers say, because on that day Congress officially established the Corps as a staff corps of the Navy and outlined responsibilities of naval medical officers.

However, the history of the Medical Corps dates back to 1775 when the first naval surgeon went to sea aboard the sloop of war Alfred.

When formally established by Congress in 1871, the Medical Corps listed 153 officers serving aboard ships and at eight naval hospitals. Today, there are more than 4,000 Navy doctors serving around the world aboard ships, at hospitals and with units of the Marine Corps.

Micro-organisms (Slurp, Chomp) Are 'Oil Eaters'

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The Navy is studying "oil-eating" bacteria in a search for ways to control oil pollution of beaches and harbors.

The study, conducted by Rutgers University for the Office of Naval Research, is focusing on the decomposition of oil through natural processes, including biodegradation — the breaking down of oil's organic matter by the action of microorganisms.

The Navy hopes to learn how to speed up the process of biodegradation. Previous work indicates the process can be hastened by seeding oil with mineral nutrients, particularly nitrogen and phosphorus, which promote the growth of microbes.

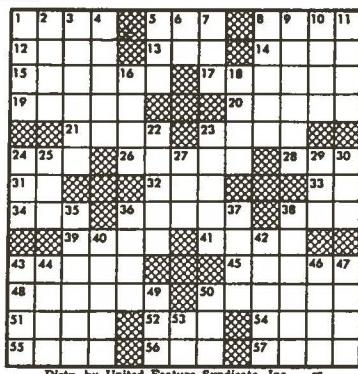

However, at the moment there is no known way to add the nutrient "fertilizer" to oil slicks without having it dilute quickly.

Some Rutgers researchers think a probable solution is to use a "binder" material to hold the nutrient as the oil is needed. This could be done, the scientists believe in conjunction with a biodegradable chemical which would break the oil into small particles the bacteria could easily attack.

Bird Authority Retires

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — One of the world's foremost authorities on bird medicine and the falcon, Colonel James C. McIntyre, has retired at the Air Force Academy after 31 years' service.

He was the Academy's veterinarian for the past six years and as a civilian will be assistant veterinarian in charge of the falconry program.
